HOME RULE IS ADOPTED IN COMMONS

Measure Is Accepted By Lawmakers By An Immense Majority

BAR "MARTYRS"

Firm Stand Taken By Government Cause Of Dismay

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 11.—In the House of Commons Mr. Adamson's motion for rejection of the Home Rule Bill was defeated by 183 votes to 52. The Bill was carried on its third reading.

Speaking in the House on the third reading of the Bill, Mr. Asquith urged that a concerted effort be made to find the basis of a real Irish settlement by convincing Irishmen that we were ready to meet them in a frank and generous spirit and, consistently with the safe-guarding of strategic and imperial interests and the protection of the minorities in Ireland, to give them absolute self-government with regard to their own internal affairs.

Mr. Lloyd George said that nothing would please Britain better than a frank conciliation with Ireland, but emphasised the difficulties which lay in its way, especially the suspicious attitude of the Irish themselves. So long as the present temper of Irishmen prevailed, he asserted, they would get no measure which would be accepted by Ireland.

CHALLENGES MR. ADAMSON

Continuing, the Premier challenged Mr. Adamson, who did not reply, to say if, should an assembly summoned declare in favor of a Republic, he would agree to the proposal. He stated emphatically that the Government could not recognise the independence of Ireland, as that would be a constant temptation to Ireland herself, and to others who desired to injure Britain.

Nor could it, he asserted, permit anything that would weaken the strategical security of the kingdom by depriving it of control of the Irish harbors.

Here Mr. Asquith interjected "Hear, hear," whereupon the Premier retorted that Mr. Asquith did not really favor dominion home rule, for Australia, Canada and South Africa had all complete control of their harbors.

GERMAN PLOT

Mr. MacVeagh's persistence, Mr. Lloyd George continued, was causing the Government to publish a document regarding the German plot with the Sinn Feiners in 1918. It would reveal what a menace to Britain the creeks of Ireland could be, how Sinn Fein had plotted to use them, and how it did use them now and would have used them more if the country had not had that complete grip on them which it meant to retain.

The Government could never, therefore, consent to anything which would enable Ireland to organise her own army and navy, and it would be well to emphasise this clearly: that Ireland could easily conscript an army of from 600,000 to 700,000 under dominion home rule.

He warned the Labor members that that would compel conscription in Britain. He warned the members, furthermore, that Ulster, under no circumstances was to be coerced into acceptance of any parliament against her will.

TWO PARLIAMENTS

He opined that a separate Ulster Parliament was the way most likely to lead to unity in Ireland.

The Premier explained that the reason for retaining imperial control of the customs and income taxes was the threats made by the hostile "republic." Fiscal autonomy could only be discussed with people who frankly gave up the ideal of independence.

Though there were very discouraging features in Ireland today, the whole situation did not cause the Government to despair. He hoped that the past series of misunderstandings was coming to an end.

PRAISES IRISH HEROES

In conclusion the Premier appealed to Irishmen to contemplate history, which showed that some of the Empire's greatest soldiers had come from Ireland.

He asked that Ireland in a moment of anger, even if she thought

FRENCH AGAINST GERMANS FOR NATIONS' LEAGUE

British Leaders In Stand For Unification Of All States In Pact

(Reuter's Service)

New York, November 14.—The Associated Press correspondent at Paris telegraphs:

"France is unalterably opposed to the admission of Germany to the League of Nations at this time, the Foreign Office has indicated that some drastic action would be the consequence, according to the Echo de Paris.

"The newspapers state that so far as Austria and Bulgaria are concerned, one is inclined to take a more lenient attitude, in view of existing conditions."

CALL FOR DEBATE

London, November 11.—Lord Selborne, Lord Grey, former Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Mr. George Barnes, Labor Minister without portfolio, have issued a memorandum declaring that the peace of the world will be best secured by the admission of all States to the League of Nations and that the matter must be debated at the assembly of the League at Geneva.

"The longer ex-enemy nations are excluded," states the memorandum, "the more difficult will it be for the League to fulfil the purpose for which it was created. The recent financial conference has shown that the economic problems of Europe defy national boundaries and it would have been a failure without the presence of representatives of ex-enemy states. This we believe to be at the same time true of the political affairs of Europe. We press this not for the sake of Germany, but for the sake of Europe."

GO TO ASSEMBLY

Paris, November 14.—M. Leon Bourgeois and M. Viviani have left Paris to attend the General Assembly of the League of Nations. They are accompanied by M. Jean Hennesy, Deputy; M. Fromageot, legal adviser to the Ministry for Foreign Affairs; and M. Louis Aubert, Fellow of the University.

He said that the problem of Japanese immigration along the Pacific coast would receive first consideration.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—A conference of California anti-Japanese leaders here planned to oppose attemps on the part of the Japanese to secure nullification of the recently approved anti-alien legislation.

PROBLEM UNCHANGED

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, November 11.—The statement, made by a high state official, that the question of the Adriatic settlement was likely to be relegated to the background, is taken to indicate that the State Department has begun to relax its attitude in relation to diplomatic problems, in view of the impending change of administration.

This change will, however, not affect the negotiations in regard to Japanese land tenure in California, which negotiations are nearing completion.

ATTACK ON URGA RESUMED; LOCAL ARMY INEFFICIENT

(Special Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Dramatic Plea Is Made For Famine Sufferers In South-Western Chihli

The following statement on the famine situation in the Vicariate Apostolic of South-west Chihli has been received by the Procure de Lazarestes here:

The Vicariate Apostolic of South-west Chihli comprises four Prefectures, two Prefectures of the first class: Chentingfu and Shuntefu, and two of second class, Chaochow and Tingchow; in all 32 sub-prefectures.

It is difficult to know the exact number of the population in these 32 sub-prefectures. In our yearly account, we write 8,000,000 inhabitants.

The sub-prefectures most tried by the famine are: Kiuyang, Fuping, Shingtang Lingshow, Lingshan, Tsingshing, Tsingchow, Tsanhwang, Ningtsin, Paishiang, Lincheng, Lungping, Nanho Shingtai, Pingshiang, Neikiou, Chaho, Kwangtsong, Kiulu, Tangshan.

In these sub-prefectures the crop has been almost nothing. In the other sub-prefectures, the crop, without being almost nothing, is not abundant and not sufficient certainly to feed its inhabitants. In 32 sub-prefectures there are at most but three sub-prefectures in which the crop is fairly plentiful without being abundant thanks to the land that it was possible to irrigate.

MISSIONARIES HELP

For several months these poor people have been feeding on the leaves of trees, herbs and anything they are able to find in the fields, with the stalks of sorgho and maize they make a flour which they make into a soup and thus try to live. They go to their mines and one hears by their voice, people reduced to the blackest misery. I have seen and heard them and I should weep—I have seen people come 200 li to ask that they might get the leaves of the haricots which they dry and carry home to feed their families, and I have learned later on that one of these unfortunates worn out with fatigue and misery, died on the way home.

Up to now we have helped to relieve those poor famine stricken, more than our means permitted, counting on kind Providence to come to our aid. Here at the principal residence, we have received more than 2,000 persons. In the residences, the Missionaries are doing all in their power to assist the starving and their residences are also encumbered. They distribute the alms which they try to collect. Everywhere we have distributed wheat to plant in their fields and that in addition to what was given by Mr. Wang Ta-sie.

With the means at our disposition we might do something, but what are the resources of a Mission before a misery so great; where millions are necessary to prevent the people from dying of hunger. We could receive children, old men, we could fill our orphanages our hospices, our schools. Many Missionaries have built sheds in order to be able to receive a larger number of poor. But all this conglomeration can only help to ferment contagious diseases, particularly in the

Peasant Representatives In Meeting Make Plans For Dissolution

(Reuter's Service)

Vladivostok, November 14.—The Vladivostok peasant representatives have held a meeting at which they practically decided to dissolve the local Assembly.

General Oi, the Japanese commander, invited the chairman of the Assembly and delegates of all political groups to wait upon him. He then informed them that, in view of the unstable political situation caused through the split of the conference at Chita regarding unification, and wishing to avoid undesirable conflict and to promote order in the country, he would not permit Communist rule in the regions tenanted by Japanese troops.

He added that the agreement formerly concluded between the Japanese Government and the Primoria Government for the cessation of hostilities and the establishment of a buffer state, would still stand, irrespective of the course of the negotiations at Chita, and he would not permit some third parties without their cognisance to disturb the political order and peace of the country.

'Non-Com' Charged With Attempt To Sell Documents

Japanese Newspaper Prints Tale Against Army Member

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Nov. 15.—The Yomiuri publishes a report to the effect that the sergeant major of the Garrison Hospital in Formosa stole a number of military documents, and arranged for their sale to Mr. H. B. Hitchcock, who until recently was the American Consul stationed at Taihoku, Formosa.

According to the Yomiuri, he was caught by gendarmes when attempting to make a delivery of the documents to Mr. Hitchcock's successor. The price agreed upon was Yen 100,000.

The sergeant major is reported to have confessed to the above facts.

Mr. Bell, the Charge d'Affaires at the American Embassy, has furnished an explanation which acts an entirely different complection on the case. He says that the sergeant visited Mr. Hitchcock and offered him some maps for sale, whereupon the Consul notified the authorities, who established a watch. The sergeant kept away, suspecting trouble, but approached Mr. Hitchcock's successor, Mr. E. H. Dooman, who was formerly at Kobe, and renewed his offer to sell.

Mr. Dooman asked the man to wait at the consulate, and meanwhile notified the military authorities. The traitor was arrested at the gate of the American Consulate solely through the information supplied by the Consul.

The Japanese press is continually hinting at American endeavors to bribe Japanese, so as to secure military secrets and naval plans.

Co-operation In China Is Consortium's Object

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 12.—The first important public statement in this country in reference to the China Consortium was made by Sir Charles Addis, who headed the British delegation at the recent conference, in the course of a speech at the annual dinner of the China Association.

He said that if he were asked to define in a single sentence the principle on which the new Consortium was founded, he would say it was the substitution of international co-operation in China for international competition.

The speaker paid tribute to the loyal support of his Japanese colleagues during the negotiations. He said there had recently been some misunderstanding about Japan, and he wanted to make it abundantly clear that he was sure Japan would carry out the new agreement both in the spirit and the letter.

Sir John Jordan, in a subsequent speech, emphasised the need of the Chinese people for education. In this connection, he expressed his belief that if British merchants took the lead the Government would follow.

ASKS LARGE SUM

He hoped we should help the 20,000,000 of people in China who were at present in danger of starvation.

He also expressed his confidence that, if she were given time, China would work out her own salvation.

Sir Charles declared that an important step gained was that the Consortium ensured that any expansion of the Shantung Railway would accrue to the Consortium as a whole, and not to any individual nation.

Unification of the whole railway system was now part of the declared policy of the Consortium, and part of its program was to entrust the administration to the Department of Communications in Peking.

It was proposed that the chairman of the Board should be the Minister himself, assisted by four Chinese colleagues, and four foreign engineers.

REFORM FROM WITHIN

It was, he said, the earnest desire of the Consortium to assist China in obtaining, through the establishment of a strong, suitable central government, a degree of security for the development of her immense resources, but the Chinese must appreciate that any reform worthy of the name must come from within.

He believed that China would be well advised to accept the Consortium's offer of co-operation in the work of reform in the spirit in which it was made.

WRANGEL ON FRENCH SHIP AS ARMY IS PUT TO ROUT

Red Forces Allowed To Enter Crimea With No Opposition

CALLS FOR AID

Ask General Townshend To Take Over Fight On Bolshevists

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Paris, November 14.—According to information published by the French foreign office the Polish Army under the command of General Baron Wrangel, which has been fighting the Bolsheviki army on the South Russian front for some time, has been thoroughly beaten and completely wiped out, by a large Bolsheviki army of 27 divisions, who are still pursuing the remaining fragments of Wrangel's badly mutilated army.

General Wrangel suffered great losses when many of his officers were killed, and several of his leading generals committed suicide. The mutinying of his troops at Sebastopol was one cause of his sudden defeat.

CIVILIANS FLEE

The civilians and foreigners of Sebastopol are evacuating as fast as possible but the shipping seems to be inadequate for the number desiring to flee. The French warship Waldeck Rosseau, with Wrangel on board, is still in port, but ready to depart at a moments notice.

The fleet of American destroyers recently ordered to the Adriatic have been despatched to Sebastopol to accommodate as many evacuating officers and their families as possible. The destroyer Humphreys is proceeding to Malta to take all Red Cross supplies from the transport Faralay, which arrived there yesterday.

NO MUTINIES

One despatch said that there were no mutinies and that Wrangel's forces inflicted heavy losses on the Reds but were overwhelmed by superior Bolsheviki forces and that many of the Bolsheviki officers were Germans.

A despatch received here last night from Sebastopol, sent by members of the Wrangel government, said that it was quiet last night, although the Bolsheviki were reported occupying St. Merzpol after capturing many prisoners and a large amount of war materials. A despatch received today did not mention the occupation of Sebastopol by the Bolsheviki.

LEADER BOARDS SHIP

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Nov. 14.—The Paris correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that unconfirmed reports from Constantinople state that General Wrangel boarded a French warship, after evacuating Sebastopol when the Red forces entered the peninsula.

General Wrangel's troops had engaged the Reds around Perekop when the Soviet forces attacked them from the rear.

Afterwards the Reds entered Crimea practically unopposed.

Constantinople, November 13.—The Bolshevik forces pierced General Wrangel's front on November 11 and the situation of his army is now most grave. The problem of evacuating Crimea will be most difficult.

London, November 13.—General Wrangel has telegraphed General Sir Charles Townshend, who is contesting the constituency of Wrekin as an independent candidate in the by-election there, asking him to take over command of the army in Crimea to fight the Bolsheviks.

ELECTORS TO DECIDE

General Townshend says it is for the electors of Wrekin to decide.

London, November 13.—The latest Bolshevik communique claims that their cavalry are advancing in the Crimea over a wide front and that the enemy is retreating in disorder, blowing up military stores and burning food stocks. It states that the Red troops have captured a large amount of military supplies, including three armored trains.

Constantinople, November 12.—Eighty thousand refugees from the Crimea are asking for transportation abroad, but as transport is limited, it will probably be impossible to embark more than twenty thousand. The first refugees arrived at Constantinople this afternoon, but were not permitted to land, owing to housing congestion and the scarcity of food. Their plight is of the gravest and it is hoped that France will come to their assistance and offer them asylum at Algiers.

FRONT IS BROKEN

Paris, November 14.—The Bolshevik troops have broken the front of General Wrangel's army.

Constantinople, November 13.—It is reported that heavy fighting is proceeding on the Crimean front. The Bolsheviki, with superior forces, are launching fierce assaults.

General Wrangel's troops, according to a Sebastopol report, have retired from their advanced position to their main lines of defense. It is understood that General Wrangel's fortifications on the isthmuses are strong and well-provided with artillery.

SEBASTOPOL FALLS

Paris, Nov. 14.—The Foreign Office has received a report to the effect that the Bolshevists have captured Sebastopol, together with great quantities of material. Gen. Wrangel and the members of his Government were still at Sebastopol last night.

"The Belle Of New York"

Delightfully amusing, vocally charming and handsomely garbed "The Belle of New York" and her many entertaining friends talked, sang and danced their way into the hearts of a capacity audience at the Lyceum Theater last night in the opening performance of the Amateur Dramatic Club's 185th production.

Everybody was pleased—more pleased than an A. D. C. audience has been in some little time, if the entre act gossip was any indication—and cast and chorus came in for a flattering lot of applause during the evening.

LONG A FAVORITE

"The Belle" was known of old to many of last night's gathering and those who had seen the piece in its heyday of popularity probably sought the Lyceum with somewhat of trepidation as to what an amateur revival might do to an old favorite. At the end of the first act whatever of trepidation might have been brought into the house had evidently filtered out through the ventilators, or had completely collapsed for lack of anything to feed on and the group of "old timers" gathered round the polished oak at the interval told each other that the songs were just as Al as memory had registered them. the dialogue as enlivening and the whole thing as happily arranged and handled as a corking good musical comedy should be. And those who don't qualify as "old timers" said the same thing.

"The Belle" has been excellently cast and every one of the principals found favor in the eyes and ears of their first night house.

MRS. O'HARA STARS

As "The Belle" Mrs. O'Hara lent a vivacity and appeal to the part of the Salvation Army lassie, which, coupled with her splendid voice, was eminently sufficient, as the song has it, to make her the "the talk of the town."

Mrs. Isenman's "Fifi" was done with a grace and a fine sense of the value of the part which sent the little French girl straight into the affections of every one in the auditorium. Her singing was as enchanting as one has come to expect Mrs. Isenman's singing always to be and her handling of her numbers particularly "When We Are Married," coupled some fine bits of acting with some of the most appealing light opera music that has been written.

As "Cora Angelique," Mrs. R. Spunt was both tuneful and amusing. She carried off the impersonation of the much married comic opera queen with a fine appreciation of the opportunities for burlesque which it gives.

BIG HITS MADE

And then also among the highest of the high lights in the performance, there was Mrs. Chris Wingrove. First she was "Kissy Fitzgarter" and later, "Mamy Clancy," and as both she scored as resounding a hit as has ever been made in the Lyceum. With Mr. Glemby, as "Blinkie Bill McQuire" she had the house rocking and their biggest numbers, "The Belle of New York" and "Coney Island" were encored until the pair simply had to quit from sheer exhaustion.

The hour grows late and the press is beginning to rumble hungrily for the last of the day's copy—which is why there must be a brief and rapid sketching in of the rest of the cast.

Mr. D. J. Donne as "Harry Bronson," and Mr. G. B. Stormes, as old "Bronson," filled those parts in decidedly satisfactory style. Mr. Blanchard's "Mugg" was another delightful comedy factor and Mr. M. D. Silas and Mr. M. Speelman, as the lunatic and the impressario were additional reasons for the laughter which the play brought out. Also in this department were Messrs. Cannan and Ratcliff as the twin Portuguese counts, and Messrs. Landers, James, Warrener and Weston and Miss Petersen lent active aid toward the success of the piece.

MANY SONG HITS

The story of "The Belle" and its melodies are familiar to most local theatergoers, and if they're not next Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights are good times at which to make them so. The favorite songs registered heavily last night.

Mrs. O'Hara's "Follow On" and "Kiss Me Again" were particularly fine and Cora Angelique's "Tact" and "Bronson Sr's." "Of course you can't be like us" should be mentioned in addition to those already referred to.

The costumes, as said, are optically most gratifying and Mr. Peyton-Griffin's settings deserve commendatory remark. And there should be a very, very hearty vote of appreciation for the work of Mr. Jack Raynes, the musical director, and Mr. J. Em. Lemiere, producer of "The Belle."

Touting Interpreter Suspended By Court

Assessor Makes Example Of Lawyer's Assistant And Issues Warning

A lawyer's interpreter found guilty of touting for business was suspended for three months from appearance in the Mixed Court by Assessor Blackburn and the Chinese Magistrate in that tribunal yesterday.

The Assessor stated that the Court objected emphatically to this practice and felt that a great deal of unnecessary litigation was caused by it. The interpreters had a habit of hanging about the Court and finding out when summonses and warrants were issued and then going along to the parties and urging them to come to the lawyers for whom they worked, promising that they would settle the matter satisfactorily.

The Court would not tolerate this practice, the Assessor said, and as this was the first case that had been proved the interpreter had been suspended. The Court wished to warn lawyers and interpreters that if there were further proved cases the guilty parties would be severely dealt with.

Spring. I believe that the most practical manner to act would be to find houses in the villages to place the children and where they would have a school, and be fed two meals a day, in the evening returning to their homes.

$2.50 MONTHLY NEEDED

But it is not alone the children who are to be saved, it is every one. Able-bodied men could work, if work was procured. Every month help could be given to women and little children in money or grain.

If the Committees of Benevolence would intrust the Missionaries to make the distribution of money or grain, we could name a Missionary in each district to do this work of charity, and it would be done in a conscientious manner and without any distinction of religion. In counting the actual cost of grain to feed one person for a month $2.50 would be necessary.

Up to this we have spoken only of grain but to cook the food a fire is indispensable. The question of fire presents itself as well as the question of food. It must be made procurable or even provide coal to enable them to cook their food and to help to keep them warm during the severe cold of Winter, is an absolute necessity. There is also the question of clothes. In a misery so great general abundant and continual help is needed and for such a period until these poor afflicted people will be able to rely on themselves for sustenance.

WINTER APPROACHING

The Winter is approaching, soon the herbs that helped to support them cannot be had. Being in daily contact with them it is easy to see that by their words and manner their anxiety increases. . . . Poor people, what will become of them if something is not done for them? It is therefore of great importance to begin to work. Committees have been formed and numerous delegates from different charitable Associations have come to examine and they can prove that nothing has been exaggerated. When will help begin to come? . . .

Then to the work without delay. One day behind time may contribute to the deaths of many children, old men and women who are weakened and exhausted by privation.

May the good and pitying God touch the hearts of the rich and fortunate and inspire them to come to the rescue and save the lives of millions of unfortunate creatures who cry to them for help.

FU CHUNG CONTRIBUTES

Peking, November 10.—The Fu Chung Corporation has voted a contribution of $30,000 to the Famine Relief Fund, to be allocated as follows: $20,000 to the Honan Relief Committee, $5,000 to the North China Famine Relief Association of Peking, and $5,000 to the International Famine Relief Association of Tientsin.

BENEFIT AT NANKING

Much has been heard of the Kiangsu First Girls Normal School, located in Nanking, since the formation of a new staff, many of whom are returned students from America. The most recent activity is a play composed and staged by the students of the school. The play was given at the Fengtien-Chihli Club for two nights, and was attended by an appreciative audience of over 2,000 people.

The sales of the tickets went to famine relief of the Northern Provinces. One of the features was an auction sale of three attractive pennants, one of which sold for fifty dollars. These beautiful pennants, with Chinese inscriptions signifying benevolence, etc., were made by the students. The profits from the auction sales helped to engross the total benefits to about one thousand dollars or more.

TRIBUTE PAID TO VICTIMS OF GREAT CONFLICT

Wonderful Scenes Of Big Day Of Allies Are Re-enacted At London

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 12.—The wonderful scenes which characterised yesterday's great pilgrimage to the Abbey and Cenotaph, are being re-enacted today. There was a constant stream of visitors yesterday evening to the Abbey, which only closed at 11 o'clock and reopened at 7.30 this morning instead of at 10 owing to the crowds which had already gathered to pay this tribute of respect.

Similarly at the Cenotaph, people began to arrive in Whitehall during the very early hours of the morning, and soon developed into an immense queue: the great mounds of wreaths and crosses at the foot of the Cenotaph kept steadily growing.

MASS OF FLOWERS

A striking feature was the great mass of flowers in small bunches which had been deposited by members of the humbler working classes.

The Duke of York this afternoon unveiled a memorial outside the Royal Exchange to the London troops who fell in the war.

Paris, November 12.—On behalf of King George, the British Government and the Army Council, General the Hon. Sir Charles Sackville West and General Sir John Du Cane laid three beautiful wreaths on the tomb of the unidentified French soldier.

CHEFOO CELEBRATES

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, November 11.—A military parade of returned soldiers, Thanksgiving service, a tiffin, football match and ball featured the gala celebration here today for the second anniversary of the signing of the Armistice. Most of the American and British business houses were closed for the day.

Just before 11 o'clock in the morning, a salute was fired from the gun on Settlement Hill and flags in port were lowered for two mintues to half mast. At the same time there was silence in the St. Andrew's Church where a service of thanksgiving was being held. This silence was maintained also in the homes and the three schools of the China Inland Mission.

At 10:30 o'clock, the returned soldiers lined up at the Chefoo Club and marched to St. Andrew's Church.

TIFFIN AT CLUB

After the service, a tiffin was held in the club by the newly organised Society, the Sons of Britain, and their guests. Toasts were proposed after the excellent menu was served. Mr. McMoonies, chairman of the society, made the speech of welcome. Among those present were Mr. Russel Brown, the British Consul and Captain Brooke of the British gunboat Magnolia, which arrived here last Tuesday.

In the afternoon, a football match between the first eleven of the China's Inland Mission Boys' School and the Sons of Britain was staged, resulting in an easy victory for the schoolboys. The final score was 4-0.

Mrs. Brown, wife of the British Consul, kicked off.

The program of the day was brought to a fitting conclusion with a colorful ball held at the dance hall of the Chefoo Club Annex. The hall was profusely decorated with the flags of the Allied nations and regimental badges of the various units which served during the war. Refreshments were served.

Preparations are now on foot to stage several football games with the men from the Magnolia. The school will again battle the marines for honors on next Wednesday.

FRENCH EXCISE REPORT

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, November 12.—The aggregate proceeds of the state excises and monoplies for October exceeded £53,000,000 (at the par rate), being an increase of more than £20,000,000 (at par) over October, 1919.

The importation of manufactured articles is decreasing steadily in proportion as the conditions of French industry are improving.

DEVELOP OIL WELLS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, November 14.—British oil interests are showing renewed activity in Mexico and Ecuador, while the British Government itself has started a survey of the Hungarian oil fields.

R. MARR-JOHNSON DEFEATS McEACHRAN AND QUALIFIES FOR GOLF CHAMPION FINALS

J. B. Ferrier Wins From J. Os wald In Easy Fashion And Will Meet Doughty Colonel In Final Round Next Sunday After noon

By winning from J. Oswald and J. S. McEachran respectively Sunday at the Kiangwan links, Mr. J. B. Ferrier and Col R. Marr Johnson will compete in the finals of the Shanghai Golf Club championship next Sunday in Kiangwan. The first round will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and the second at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The results of the semi-finals were:

J. B. Ferrier beat J. Oswald, 13 and 12.

R. Marr-Johnson beat J. S. McEachran, 8 and 7.

Except that a strong wind was blowing, conditions for playing were excellent.

In the Ferrier-Oswald contest, the performance of the latter was somewhat disappointing. He seemed to be getting off the course with his drives and brassies most frequently, which, in a great measure cost him his game with Ferrier. He found himself seven down in the first nine holes. He bucked up later but the handicap was too much for him to recover.

PICKED UP LATER

In the second nine holes, he lost only one more.

The afternoon saw both contestants in their best form. Ferrier had the better luck: his putting being very strong.

The match concluded at the sixth green when Oswald went out of the bounds and being short with his next could not hope to compete against Ferrier's accurate play which resulted in a three.

In spite of his indisposition, Col. Marr-Johnson made a splendid showing, getting a long ball. His approaches were excellent. His opponent played the low running shot while he favored the loft and the under-cut.

Col. Johnson played a sound and steady game and seldom gave anything away. The game came to an end at the 11th when both found themselves in difficulties. Marr-Johnson, however, holed out a long putt and won over McEachran by 8 and 7.

Marr-Johnson started by winning the first hole in a four. However, at the third, his opponent evened up matters with a beautiful long approach which he laid dead. The Colonel cinched the fourth, after his opponent had overrun the hole in trying to shove down a long putt.

A topped brassie shot spelled doom for Mc3,achran in the fifth. A half in four followed at the sixth. McEachran had bad luck at the following hole, in kicking into the second bunker and then missed a four.

McEachran conceded the eighth in 6 to 5, and was now 2 down. He tried for a two at the 9th, but had to be content with a half in three. After winning the 10th in 4 to 5, the victor played a magnificent iron off the 11th tee, and had an eight-foot putt for a two. He missed that, but a three put him four up.

McEachran got a half in 5 in the 12th. Halves were the order in the 13th and 14th holes.

Col. Johnson won the 15th with a beautiful pitch and the 16th in 4 to 5, but lost the 17th when he put his tee shot into the bunker and, playing out, struck himself. He also lost the 18th, finishing up with a lead of four holes.

C.R.C. Defeats H.M.S. "Scarab"

The Chinese Recreation Club was victorious over H.M.S. Scarab football elevens on Sunday afternoon on the Fuh-tan University grounds, winning by a 2 to 0 score.

The C.R.C. left winger sent in some very fine centers which failed to place, but finally made a good run down for a score.

After the interval the clubs in side right made an individual play and added another score. The C.R.C. backs had no trouble in breaking up the sailor's attack. A great crowd saw the match.

Mr Jones refereed the game, to the satisfaction of both the players and the spectators.

Temperament A Big Factor In Billiards

By RISO LEVI

Temperament counts for a great deal when playing billiards, indeed, perhaps in no other game does it play quite so important a part. This is because billiards is the only game in which a player can go on, stroke after stroke, without his opponent having a turn or being able to do anything to stop him.

At golf each player strikes his ball in turn, but at billiards a player continues at the table until he fails to score. If the game is only a short one, he may conceivably win it without his opponent having had more than a stroke or two, or the two players may be level at the half-way stage, and then one of them may run to game without allowing his opponent to go to the table again.

At golf nothing of the kind can occur; two players may be level at the 17th hole, but neither can win without allowing his opponent just as many strokes to the last hole as he has himself.

NOT SO MUCH LUCK

The element of luck does not enter into golf nearly so much as it does into billiards. A golfer, it is true, may sometimes be lucky in holing his ball with an exceptionally long putt, but as when the ball is a very long way from the hole, a very good stroke is required to place it quite close to it, the luck in holing it results from a fine shot.

At billiards not only may a player be favored with a succession of fine leaves each time that he goes to the table, but the balls may also run very well for him whilst he is making a break.

And in addition to this, he may make quite a number of flukes in the course of a game, and flukes at billiards, more especially when they occur at a critical stage of the game, or when the resultant leaves happen to be good ones, are apt to be very disconcerting, and sometimes even demoralising, to the player who is sitting down waiting for his turn at the table.

SOME 'BLOW UP'

Temperament enters very largely into billiards by reason of the manner in which luck may affect the game. Some players are easily ruffled by their opponents flukes—as a rule, such players quickly forget their own, and only remember those made against them—and a succession of flukes or lucky strokes by an adversary often puts them so much off their game that they go all to pieces, and are unable to take advantage of the good openings which may come their way later.

A succession of good breaks which are quite free from flukes frequently has a similarly disconcerting effect on a player against whom they have been made, and puts him off his game.

Nor is this effect, which good play by one man so often has on his opponent, confined to amateurs, for more than one well-known professional has often gone to pieces when his opponent has played in his best form and has assumed a lead of a couple of thousand or so.

HIGH-STRUNG PLAYERS

The reason that some players are affected much more than others by their opponents' play is because some men are far more highly-strung than others.

It is common knowledge how very often Reece has gone absolutely to pieces towards the end of a game with Inman when the latter has been a long way in front.

And what deplorable billiards Reece has played on the final days in matches which have resulted in the very easiest of wins for Inman or for some other professional.

The very same thing has happened to Stevenson when battling against Inman, as witness the final heat of the professional championship in 1919, when Stevenson was defeated by the tremendous margin of 6,534 in a game of 16,000 up. And Stevenson and Reece are perhaps more highly-strung than any other leading professional.

HONGKONG CRICKET

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, November 15.—The cricket match between Hongkong and a combined team of visitors was continued today.

The visitors, resuming their first innings, which stood at 241 for eight wickets when stumps were drawn on Saturday, were all out for 244. Hongkong knocked up 190 for five wickets before tiffin.

Greatest Trophies Of Age Are Man o' War's Shoes

Philadelphia, Oct. 15.—All the dainty chorus ladies whose slippers are at a premium have nothing on Man o' War. His shoes are considered the greatest trophies of the age. Each time the wonder horse wins a race, his owner, Samuel Riddle, has the shoes taken off and silver plated and engraved with the date and the record of the race. These silver souvenirs are given by Mr. Riddle to his friends. Requests for the shoes far exceed the number worn by Man o' War in his short career.

NICHOLS LOSES IN HARD-COURT TENNIS FINALS

C. H. Shih Beats Yankee On Condition; Latter, With Wife, Victorious

The old adage that "youth must be served" was verified at the Cercle Sportif Francaise on Sunday afternoon when C. H. Shih, of Nanyang college, defeated R. B. Nichols, former Wesleyan College tennis star, in the finals of the 1920 hard-court championship, 7-5, 1-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Mr. Nichols put up a splendid exhibition of tennis in the first and second sets, but "blew up" after that and was forced to yield the match almost without a struggle, thanks to the youth and wonderful physical condition of his opponent.

A big crowd was on hand to see the match.

Yesterday afternoon, at the Columbia Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols defeated Ult and Mrs. W. H. Daub for the 1920 mixed doubles championship in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. The losers were completely outclassed by the American pair.

BRITISH HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP IS EXCORIATED FOR REFUSAL TO LIVE UP TO CONTRACT

Expert Says Joe Beckett Is "Supersensitive," But Urges Latter To Keep Faith With Cochran On Proposed Fight With Moran—Has Good Record At Home

BY BERKELEY
(London Daily Mail)

I am sorry that Joe Beckett, England's heavy-weight boxing champion, has suffered "mental agony" because of his belief that there are certain people in this country who "want to see him beaten."

Although he does not look it, Beckett is a sensitive chap. He is also rather obstinate, a becoming virtue in a fighter, and when he gets an idea into his head it is hard to erase it. Therefore, I do not suppose that Joe will accept my judgment when I say that his impression that he is unpopular in certain quarters is "bogey," more or less.

It is true that Beckett lost many adherents when he was beaten by Carpentier and that there are still a number of good judges of the game who maintain that the Southampton man is not within stones of being a first-class champion. To these hypercritical people all I have to say is that a man can do no more than win his fights. This Beckett has done decisively so far as his championship contests are concerned, and, what is of still greater account, none of our native-born heavy weights seems anxious to dispute his title.

BECKETT MISGUIDED

There is one direction, however, in which Beckett does not shine, and that is in the making of his matches. He signed a contract with Mr. C. B. Cochran to box Frank Moran, and for this he was to receive the sum of £2,300. He now says he is willing to box Moran for that sum, but not under Mr. Cochran's direction or auspices.

Beckett here expresses his determination not to fulfil a contract duly and properly entered into. It does not matter that Mr. Cochran does not desire to go on with the match. It was the plain duty of Beckett to offer to fulfil his contract or to have it annulled by mutual agreement. The advice which caused him to act as he did is not good advice, and the sooner he discards it the better.

DEMANDS A PROBE

Beckett's attitude over this affair is surely a matter which ought to engage the attention of the British Boxing Board of Control. It will not do for that body to say again that Mr. Cochran has not lodged a complaint. If champions are to be allowed to impose fresh conditions after making contracts, what may not the "small fry" do?

It is true that Mr. Cochran was not a member of the Board of Control, for the reason that he was never asked to join, but he was in full sympathy with all its enactments. He would never allow a suspended boxer the use of his gymnasium, he would not give him a contest, and he would not admit him to any of his shows as a spectator.

I understand that all the dates at Olympia which were tentatively reserved for Mr. Cochran for the purpose of boxing shows are to be filled up without delay.

Is Fellow-Promoter With Rickard In Big Fight

Mr. Cochran, "the Rickard of England," has joined forces with "Tex" and William A. Brady in the promotion of the world's championship quarrel between Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey, now scheduled for settlement in Havana, Cuba, next Fourth of July.

it to be legitimate anger, should not cast away a joint inheritance which was hers as much as England's, but rather that the Irish should join in the Empire they had helped to build and adorn.

Sir Edward Carson declared that he felt Ulster would do her best to perform her obligations under the bill.

The influence of Armistice Day clearly colored all the speeches, which were couched in the most conciliatory terms. The speakers were markedly anxious to avoid unnecessary controversies.

HUNGER-STRIKE ENDS

London, November 12.—The Government's determination to allow the Sinn Fein hunger-strikers to die has evidently convinced Sinn Fein leaders of the futility of making more martyrs. Consequently, Mr. Arthur Griffith, "Acting President of the Irish Republic," has written the Mayor of Cork expressing the view that the eight hunger-strikers in Cork Jail who are said to have fasted for over ninety days have proved that they are prepared to die for Ireland and should now prove that they are prepared again to live for her.

Accordingly, the hunger-strikers have resumed feeding today. Their long fast does not seem to have produced any untoward effects and they are all expected to recover soon.

MOTOR REGULATION

London, November 12.—It is officially announced that owing to the extensive criminal usage of motor cars in Ireland, from December 1 owners' permits will be valid only between six in the morning and eight in the evening except in Dublin and Belfast, and only within a radius of twenty miles from the owner's residence.

Moreover, cars illegally used are liable to severe penalties including confiscation of the car, thus the fact that a car is taken by force or intimidation does not exempt the owner from these penalties.

London, November 12.—The Gazette publishes a decree under the new Restoration of Order in Ireland Act, empowering the military and naval authorities to take possession of the railways in Ireland with a view to prohibiting or enforcing any railway to carry all passengers or goods.

REPORTERS HELD UP

London, November 12.—Seventy men ambushed a party of English journalists and their police escort as they were motoring to Tralee. The attack was repulsed and seven of the assailants captured. It is reported that two of the attacking party were killed and several wounded. The journalists and their escort suffered no casualties.

London, November 12.—A telegram from Tralee reports an affray in that neighborhood, in which two civilians were shot dead and two wounded; and several of the auxiliary police wounded.

Danube Conferees Proceed With Task

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, November 13.—The International Danube Conference met yesterday afternoon. The organisation of the special administrative regime to be applied to the Iron Gates Section was determined.

The Conference then dealt with the question of appeals against the decisions of the International Commission and the settlement of differences which may arise between the various States concerned.

The Conference further decided on measures to ensure uniformity in the interpretation and application of the Convention, so far as possible, in the administration of the Danube. Finally the text of the general provisions of the Convention and of the Protocol was agreed upon.

The next meeting of the Conference takes place on November 15.

Armenian Armistice Conference Reported

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, November 12.—The Armenian Government reports the terms of the armistice concluded with the Turks and Bolsheviki as follows: firstly, withdrawal of the Armenians to the West bank of the Arpachai, thus giving up Zangazur and the Karabagh district, and opening up a corridor for Turco-Bolshevik communications; secondly, occupation of Alexandropolsk and a ten-kilometer radius around it by the Turks, pending peace negotiations; thirdly, the Turks to be responsible for the maintenance of order and the security of the inhabitants of the country.

NO SPECIAL PARLEY

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 12.—It is stated on good authority that the 1921 Imperial Conference will be a business meeting held on the lines of the Imperial War Cabinet meetings of 1917 and 1918 to deal with urgent problems of common imperial interest.

It is not proposed, as had been suggested in some quarters, to hold in 1921 the special conference to deal with the constitution of the Empire, contemplated by the resolution passed by the conference in 1917, as it is widely thought that public opinion has had insufficient time to grasp the significance of the changes in the external and internal relations of the Empire which have resulted from the war.

WANG INDIGNANT OVER REJECTION OF HIS KINSMAN

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Hankow, Nov. 15.—Despite his command of 100,000 troops in Hupeh, Tuchun Wang Chan-yuan today threatened to take no responsibility for the peace and order of his province unless the newly appointed Civil Governor, Mr. Hsia Shou-kang refrains from coming here to assume his office.

General Wang further demanded that the Central Government should at once remit him cash to pay the soldiers' arrears.

The demands are made because Peking has turned down his relative and nominee, Sun Chen-chia, as Civil Governor of Hupeh and appointed Hsia.

Two others received sentences of eighteen months each and the brothel keeper was ordered imprisoned for a year.

Wedding

BRAND—BURKILL

Miss Katharine Joyce Burkill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Burkill, and Mr. John Kenneth Brand, director of Messrs. Probst Hanbury Company were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at the Holy Trinity Cathedral by the Rev. C. J. F. Symons.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. A. W. Burkill, who is connected with the firm of A. R. Burkill and Sons. Mr. David Brand, brother of the groom, acted as best man while two attractive little girls, Miss Phyllis Cumming, niece of the bridegroom and Miss Nellie Marshall, daughter of Dr. Marshall, were flower girls.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a deep girdle of pearls and a long court veil which was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and orange blossoms.

The flower girls wore frocks of shell pink tulle over cloth of gold and dainty tulle hats. They carried bouquets of pink baby roses.

Mrs. Burkill, mother of the bride was gowned in nigger brown and fawn satin and Mrs. Brand, mother of the groom in a smart grey costume.

Messrs. Liddell, Fearon, Bremmer and Hine acted as ushers.

The Cathedral was beautifully decorated in bamboo and chrysanthemums. Bamboo branches were banked at the entrance of the Cathedral while the bridal party, which was led by the choir boys, walked under an arch of bamboo and chrysanthemums to the altar.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, "Farlands," on Weihaiwei Road which was attended by more than two hundred guests.

Japan Dissatisfied With Reply To Her Nikolaievsk Note

(Special Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, November 15.—The Ministry of Foreign Affairs has replied to the Japanese note on the alleged participation of Chinese gunboats in the so-called Nikolaievsk massacre. It accepts the Japanese demand that the commander of the Chinese gunboats should apologise to the Japanese commander, but rejects the demand that the Government should also apologise. The Japanese Legation is dissatisfied with the reply.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, November 15.—Replying to the recent Japanese Note, demanding, interalia, an apology from the Chinese Government on account of the Nikolaievsk affair, the Waichiaopu denies the necessity for the Government to apologise. It contends that an apology from the local officials should be sufficient, together with the punishment of the offenders.

Agreeable and Effective

No one likes to take castor oil, calomel, or harsh laxatives, and it is really not necessary. The same beneficial results may be obtained with Dr. Ross' Life Pills with the added advantage of a tonic effect which builds up the system.

This famous remedy thoroughly clears out the digestive tract, opens the bile-ducts, and stimulates the action of the liver. The result is a clear head, added vitality and vigor, good appetite, good digestion. That is why they are called "Life Pills."

Plaintiff's claim was as agents for No. 20 Yates Road, for recovery of the premises upon the ground that they had been sub-let by the defendant without the consent of the plaintiffs in writing, which was contrary to the terms of lease, and also for mesne profits not exceeding Tls. 1,000.

Mr. H. Reader Harris, appearing for the plaintiffs, asked that pleadings be ordered and Mr. Lipson Ward, for the defendant, concurred.

States Holiday Mail May Go Out By Nile

A further opportunity for the dispatch of Christmas mail to the States comes up as the result of an announcement by the China Mail Steamship Company that their steamer Nile will sail direct for San Francisco from Yokohama, instead of calling at the usual ports between there and America.

The Nile is scheduled to sail from Shanghai on November 21 for Nagasaki and will proceed direct from that port to America, omitting the calls at Yokohama and Honolulu. According to this program the ship should arrive in San Francisco about December 8, which will allow distribution of mails to practically all parts of the United States by Christmas day.

resigned as President after Chang Hsun's monarchical movement.

General Lu Yung-ting is the mainstay of the Kwangsi militarists, being the only Kwangsi leader whose safety was not threatened during the recent victorious march on Canton of General Chen Chiung-ming.

Premier Will Act On Mesopotamia At June Meeting

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 11.—Brigadier-General Croft, M.P. asked in the House of Commons today for an undertaking that no definite decision would be taken with regard to Mesopotamia until the Prime Ministers of the Empire had met next June.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that this was quite impossible.

He pointed out that the expenses incurred in Mesopotamia fell upon Great Britain alone, not on the Empire, and that troops could not be kept in Mesopotamia for months longer than was necessary.

London, Nov. 14.—According to the Sunday Pictorial, the Government has ordered the immediate withdrawal of all British and Indian troops from Persia, and also a drastic reduction in the strength of British and Indian troops in Mesopotamia, with a view to handing over the country to the new Arab Government which is now being established there.

Why Women Grow Old More Quickly Than Men

Greater Percentage of Anaemia—Lack of Iron in the Blood—Among Women Makes Them Lose Much of Their Youth, Beauty and Former Attractiveness, And Become Fretful, Nervous and Run-down—

What Women Need Is Not Cosmetics or Stimulating Drugs But Plenty of Pure Red Blood, Rich In Iron

Physician Explains How Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron, Enriches The Blood, Strengthens The Nerves, Builds Up Physical Power and Often Makes Weak, Pale Careworn Women Look and Feel Years Younger.

Look for the woman who appears younger than a man of the the same age and you will find the exception to that vast majority upon whom anaemia—lack of iron in the blood has fastened its grip and is gradually sapping the health, vitality and beauty which every woman so longs to retain. In most cases men safeguard their health better than women by eating coarser foods, being more out-of-doors and leading more active lives, thereby keeping their blood richer in iron and their bodies in better physical condition. The very moment a woman allows herself to become weak, nervous and run-down she is placing a drain upon her whole system which overtaxes the power of the blood to renew wasted tissue and keep active the natural life forces of the body. There are thousands of women who are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying that perfect bodily health which comes from plenty of iron in the blood, simply because they are not awake to their condition. For want of iron a woman may look and feel haggard and all run-down—while at 50 or 60 with good health and plenty of iron in her blood she may still be young in feeling and so full of life and attractiveness as to defy detection of her real age. But a woman cannot have beautiful ros. cheeks or an abundance of strength and endurance without iron, and physicians below have been asked to explain why they prescribe organic iron — Nuxated Iron — to help supply this deficiency and aid in building a race of stronger, healthier women.

At 20 Years

At 30 Years

At 40 Years

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital says: "Many a woman who is run-down, easily tired out, nervous and irritable, suffers from iron deficiency and does not know it. I am convinced that there are thousands of such women who, simply by taking Nuxated Iron might readily build up their red corpuscles, increase physical energy, and get themselves into a condition to ward off the millions of disease germs that are almost continually around us. I consider Nuxated Iron one of the foremost blood and body builders—the best to which I have ever had recourse."

Among other physicians asked for an opinion was Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital, New Jersey, who says: "What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the springtime of life into their step is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs but plenty of rich pure blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or to her work. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood-builders, and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

Exchange Reforms Urged By Official

London, November 12.—Lieut.-Colonel L. C. M. Amery, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, speaking at a luncheon of the Anti-Double Income Tax Association, pointed out that Imperial preference need not necessarily be limited to tariffs, but might apply to every form of trade, commerce, shipping and telegraphs.

He desired to see a system which would free us from the difficulties of the exchange problem within the Empire, and would make it no more difficult to regulate the exchanges between India and Canada or Australia and South Africa than it now is between Fremantle and Sydney or Halifax and Vancouver.

Ottawa, Ill., November 11.—Mystery enshrouds the whereabouts of a cashier, named Francis Carey, who was reported to have been entombed on Wednesday evening in a safe, the time-lock of which had been set for Friday morning, by an alleged bandit, who was stated to have quitted the National Bank with $50,000, which he dropped in his flight.

The officials, by the use of acetylene torches and dynamite, eventually opened the safe this (Thursday) morning, but instead of finding the suffocated cashier, as they expected, they could see no trace of him.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

Yui Wong-tsz was proceeding along the Canton Road in such laborious fashion Sunday night that the Chinese Police Constable on the beat felt impelled to offer commiseration and agree that this was rotten weather for rheumatism.

Instead of stopping for a sympathetic chat and a discussion of symptoms and the relative efficacy of the buckeye and the bent horseshoe nail as warders off of sciatic pangs Yui executed a stately left-wheel and galloped ponderously down an alleyway. And as he ran there resounded up and down the darkened way a muffled, metallic clanking, which excited the C. P. C's. curiosity. He took after Yui and as that party was making rather heavy going of it, soon overhauled him. An investigation revealed that Yui had sixteen sizeable bars of iron concealed in his costume.

Yesterday in the Mixed Court Sung Hyi-ching appeared to state that the ironware was part of a lot which he was using in the construction of a new building on Canton Road and Yui, still looking rather humpbacked and weary, was consigned to a cell for a week's rest.

Shantung Tuchun Wants Tuchunate Abolished Here

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Nov. 11.—The military governor of Shantung, Tien Chung-yu, who lately extended his power by forcing out the civil governor and absorbing his prerogatives, has come out with a long and virtuous declaration advocating the abolition of the Tuchunate and offering his own resignation as soon as the government shall have arranged with all the other Tuchuns to quit.

Tien says that he has found all the Tuchuns to be, as far as his experience goes, patriotic men, and he feels assured that they will step out of their positions if the government will explain to them that such an act would be for the welfare of the nation. Tien makes much in his declaration of the example of Lu Yung-hsiang, who sent out a similar declaration some time ago, and of Li Shun, who did more than talk—actually vacated his post.

Oak Flooring WHY?

OAK FLOORING costs only a trifle more than a high-class carpet. A carpet, no matter how good the quality may be, wears out in a few years—an oak floor will last a life-time and longer.

OAK FLOORING is hygienic. It does not harbour dust and germs as does a carpet. It is easily cleaned and always looks new.

A WELL POLISHED oak floor is infinitely superior in appearance to an ordinary carpet.

TO INSTAL oak flooring costs from Tls. 25 to Tls. 40. per fong (100 sq. ft.), according to the design selected

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per Head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

The winter monsoon will set in again in Shantung, and on the Yellow Sea. Variable breezes in the South. Weather overcast and threatening rain.

What Wrangel's Collapse Means

ON the eve of the first meeting of the General Assembly of The League of Nations, the world presents a confused and disheartening aspect. There are some hopeful phases, to be sure. Poland and Lithuania have made peace with the Bolsheviki, and the threatened war between Italy and Jugo-Slavia over Fiume has been averted by the San Margherita agreement.

On the other hand, the general state of Europe offers little if any encouragement while the situation in the Far East is critical. And the decision of the California voters on the Alien Land Law, together with their plan to form the western states in a federation to resist Japanese immigration, has aroused further indignation in Japan.

Probably the biggest problem that confronts the Assembly is that produced by the apparent collapse of General Wrangel's army in the face of renewed and desperate assaults by the Russian Red armies. The extent of the disaster sustained by Wrangel cannot be fully estimated but its seriousness cannot be exaggerated. The Bolshevik communique brought from London by Reuter under date of November 13 reports an advance in the Crimea over a wide front, with Wrangel retreating in disorder, blowing up military stores and burning food stocks. It also reports the capture of three armored trains and large military supplies. A dispatch from Paris under date of November 14 admits without qualification that "the Reds have broken the front of General Wrangel's army."

This is grave news for it was due to the peace with Poland that the Reds were able to concentrate their armies against Wrangel and crush him, as they evidently have done. And France stands committed to the support of Wrangel. From all logical view points France and Russia are today in a state of war. Wrangel evidently will have to make peace unless France goes to his assistance full force. And how can France do that? The distances are great and the difficulties almost insurmountable.

Taking this situation a step further, let us consider what the position will be should Wrangel make peace or be forced to surrender. Russia would then have forced peace on all her fronts save that of Siberia. And in today's dispatches, you will find a Vladivostok message in which General Oi, the Japanese commander, attempts to set himself up as a virtual dictator. He invited the chairman of the Vladivostok Government and delegates of all political groups to wait upon him. "He then informed them that in view of the unstable political situation caused through the split of the Chita Conference, and wishing to avoid undesirable conflict and to promote order in the country he would not permit Communist rule in the regions tenanted by Japanese troops."

Now if the Bolsheviki force Wrangel to surrender or force him to make peace, their armies will be free for operations against the Japanese in Siberia. And it is not to be believed that the Bolsheviki, freed of their difficulties in Europe, will permit the Japanese to remain in Siberia without a fight.

This is the gravest problem that confronts the First General Assembly of the League of Nations. France and Japan have first-class seats in the Assembly. Russia and Germany are not represented at all. And recent dispatches indicate that Communism is growing in Germany, while France is strenuously opposing the admittance of Germany into the League.

How will the League handle the problem here outlined? Suppose it should attempt to stop France in the fight that France is making on Russia and should try to tell Japan to withdraw from Siberia? What then? The only hope of an amicable settlement would seem to lie in the collapse of Bolshevism itself. And while, if Wrangel had been successful, such a collapse might have eventuated, it does not now, in view of the present victories, appear to us to be immediately possible.

The fate of the League itself depends on its decisions in this crisis.

SMILE

Come out of the shadows of life's saddened past.
Leave all of the gloom behind;
Just brighten the world with a rainbow of smiles
And treasures of joy you will find.
There's no use to weep over things that are gone,
Being sad won't recall "Yesterday."
Though tomorrow brings sorrow,
don't borrow a tear
Just smile and be glad while you may.

BRAINSTORMERS

Every now and then, if not more frequently, some person or other steps up to me and puts a question which makes my hair stand on end until you could count each hair. You know the kind of question. The silly question which gets your goat until you wish you were away back where you dropped your first tear along with mother away back in the long grass.

Take Jones. Yes, take Jones. Take him out any day and lose him if you can, and I'll fall on your neck and be your little brother for ever and ever. The other morning I was working in the garden, whistling a short ode to a worm. I had been digging away at Mother Earth for hours, and every now and then that garden would hit back at me when I dived the spade in and collided with a slab of rock it had been keeping up its sleeve.

Then Jones passed. He looked at me. I laid hold of a heavy roller. "Hello, Smith," he said "gardening?" "Silly ass. No," I replied. "Do have a bit of sense. What you want is to get a vacuum working on the dado round your brain department just to remove the cobwebs. Can't you see I'm drowning a dog, or building a hen roost, or grilling a chop?"

Sometimes I wonder how Jones can think of all the clever things he asks people. Then there is Sydney. You can take Sydney. Take him near a river and push him in. I have just had a holiday with Sydney. The first morning he dashed into my room while I was shaving my frontispiece. "Hello, Bright Eyes," he snapped. "are you shaving, then?" "No, you fool," I shouted, "I am blacking my boots."

Some day upon the distant horizon you will see two specks. That will be the writer chasing a silly questioner with an unopened Mill's bomb looking for a good home.

LODGERS FOR THE NIGHT

Since we are "lodgers for the night,
At this old Wayside Inn called Earth."
Where by tomorrow we shall leave
Upon some new road's endless
girth—

I often wonder why we have,
Amid the clash of brain and
brawn,
So little time for fellowship,
Before we leave the Inn at dawn.

How little time we take to see
Beyond the old Inn's window panes
The star-dust faint upon the fields,
The trees that whisper down
the lanes—

In place of which we give our dreams
To fame and rank of little worth,
We, who are "lodgers for the night
At this old Wayside Inn called Earth."

MONEY AND MANNERS

"The paying of a dinner bill—I have traced a broken engagement to the manners displayed in the doing of this simple duty. There is the man who pays a bill in a groping, furtive way, counting out his money half under the table, as if it were composed of pawn tickets. There is the man who throws it out coin by coin—what he calls 'chucking it about,' I suppose; 'That's the sort of fellow I am,' he seems to be saying. There is the man who asks what the damage is, then airily poohpoohs the amount with a facetious, 'Oh, I think we can manage that!' There is the man who blushes, looks confused and fumbles in every pocket. You wonder if he has miscalculated his income, and feel guilty of overeating. There is the affable man who chatters to you about the price of each item; to put you quite at your ease I take it. There is the species which thoroughly preens its bill with its pencil, looking up to ask whether you had one roll or two. The finest test of manners is the handling of money."—Mind and Manners, by Acton Reed.

Dr. Hibben, Home From Europe, Tells Of Reconstruction

Princeton University Head In Urging More Americanism Cites Foch And The Lesson Of The Marne

(New York Tribune)

When President John Grier Hibben of Princeton University returned the other day from his vacation in Europe he brought back as settled convictions two ideas that he had taken over with him to try them out. Neither one appears under a new arrangement of colors but as they are still under general discussion they need not be laid on a shelf ticketed like moral but dull maxims. As he put these convictions into deliberate language his listener strove to impress every word on his memory in order to repeat them with equal deliberation.

"I took over with me the Americanism that I know by my contact with our youth from every part of our land to be the true Americanism, one of confidence and aspiration," said Dr. Hibben. "I intended to weigh this spirit with the doubt and despondency of Europe to be able to prophesy which would win out if they came in conflict.

"The recent bomb horror in New York has placed on the scales the bitter hatred of wealth and ordered living that has grown out of generations oppressed in Europe and the spirit of our youth in whom it would be impossible to inculcate these dark lessons. Every one of the boys in this and the other great schools knows he has a chance to be like the man he would emulate, and this feeling is at the firm foundation of our institutions. The lesson we should apply was taught us by Foch at the Marne—to strike on the offensive when the moment has come to abandon the defensive.

VISITS GRAVES

"Although the stay of Mrs. Hibben and myself in London for ten days or so of early July was made delightful by our participation in several enjoyable festivities to which I shall refer again, we were nevertheless anxious to cross to the Continent to start doing what we went over to do—this was to visit the graves of our Princeton boys who fell in the war. I need not recall what the years 1916, 1917, 1918 meant to Princeton. In a way it was our war just as the victory seemed like our victory. The other great schools that displayed equally potent patriotism will pardon us the possessive.

"There were many Princetonians who did not come back and our quest had to take a devious course; now to crowded cemeteries where they slept in numbers and now to little, obscure corners where two or three of them lay side by side. From Zeebrugge, where we rowed out to see the ruined sea wall, we plunged at once into devastated Belgium, drawing breath at Nieuport and again at Ypres. At the latter place, the loss of whose exquisite town hall and cathedral is mourned by artist and tourist alike, we began to get a sense of the gigantic work of reconstruction to be done.

"Toil in these sections is incessant, but it seems as if the surface only had been cleared off a little. The mass of debris to be taken away is inconceivable. The sites of villages, sites and no more, make one think of depressing things . . . they are human ant heaps with the busy inhabitants driven out, scattered and destroyed. What histories, farces, tragedies have been played out in the vicinity of these ruinous piles of stones, all forgotten in the culminating extinction!

"But alongside of these dreary heaps bloomed fields of waving grains—the most bounteous harvests. Every available square foot of earth producing in abundance and kindly nature promising a sweet resurrection!

EVIDENCES OF PROSPERITY

"Our search, rewarded here and there by the melancholy satisfaction we felt in standing by the grave of one of Princeton's own, led us through western Belgium eastward to Namur, Liege and other towns and cities that did not suffer to the extent of those in the west, and, in fact, in these eastern Belgian cities there are to be seen many evidences of prosperity renewed, factories of all kinds, woollen mills, iron works have resumed production on a vast scale.

"Cheered by these sights, we passed to Rheims, to Verdun and the Argonne, till at last we stood at the foot of the hill of Romagne and our eyes could take in the gentle incline where in a garden of green shrubbery and beds of flowers sleep 24,000 of our American dead. The national banner floats its majestic folds overhead and the peace and beauty of the cemetery, which is now American ground, are unequalled.

"This resume leads me to the first of my convictions; it is that these devoted ones should be left where they lie. I feel amazement when I read that attempts are still being made to bring them back. I had thought such mistaken efforts had been thwarted. It appears not, and, since this false sentiment prevails in some minds, let me say to the mourner that could he see, as I did, this beautiful 'God's Acre,' with its plants and flowers tended so lovingly, he would say with me that there is every reason for leaving the boys where they are and no good reason for bringing them home. I feel strongly that our Princetonians would ask to be left by the side of their comrades where they fought.

"Romagne graveyard is as much a monument to our country as it is to the soldiers; it is a tie between France and America. The French, in spite of volatility, are a deep feeling, loyal minded people. Wherever we went in our quest we found the same evidences of their love and gratitude. It is not in France that the name of America will ever be mentioned without affection.

"Sorrowful satisfaction filled our thoughts when we finally came to the cemetery at Boni, near St. Quentin, where a great personal friend, a Princeton boy, lies buried. I have not named the others and I will not name him, but as there had been doubts about where he lay we were glad to have them solved by reading his name and insignia on the little cross raised over his grave. Heliotrope and pansy sweetened the spot.

CARDINAL MERCIER AS HOST

"On July 15 Cardinal Mercier gave a luncheon for us in his palace at Malines. The American Ambassador to France and we were the foreign guests and the rest were Belgian friends. Cardinal Mercier, great personality, lovely soul, seemed like a dear friend; he had stopped with us here at Princeton when the University honored itself by giving him a degree and he reciprocated this simple hospitality of ours in a manifold degree.

"At Louvain also we were entertained by the rector of the university and members of the faculty. Magnificent donations have been made already to the famous library, but what can take the place of the wonderful old manuscripts that the Germans destroyed? The work of clearing up the ruins goes forward without intermission and the university hopes to rebuild, but the work has not yet been started.

"Our headquarters to August 4 was Paris, which we made the starting point of our trips to the cemeteries. Day after day we set forth by train and automobile, often being turned back when in the latter vehicle by impassable roads and closed streets. I thought by what I had read that I realised what the destruction meant. I didn't. One must see it with his own eyes in order to comprehend, for no words can describe the vast monotony of these ruined districts.

"The French people have a lively appreciation of what American people have done and are doing to give them back their homes. They accept gratefully the shelter of the portable houses and watch with eagerness the slow process of rebuilding their villages. What criticism I have heard of how this work is being done comes from this side of the ocean. It has been said that the new work is foreign to the genius of the people, but what I saw of it was going up on the old lines.

CHANGES FOR THE BETTER

"This reconstruction work is of a conventional character—it has to be—but the aim seems to be to preserve whenever possible the ancient note in the architecture and to raise a clean old village on what was presumably a dirty old village. Air and light are no longer excluded as in medieval days, when many of these buildings were first erected, and an archaic flavor is somehow imparted to the modern structure.

"I believe when these works are completed they will be found acceptable alike to artist and resident. Old France seems to have strangely neglected art in the provinces, but new France is keeping it in view. Beauty before the war was thought to exist only in Paris. Cities do not exhaust the comedie humaine and in the villages only can the people develop that sense of special belonging which is the root of so many virtues.

"This effort to raise again ancient beauty and join it to modern comfort is not self-contradictory. The thing the builders are trying to avoid is making the country one vast, featureless monotony. Harmonious diversity is the concept they seek to realise.

"We were at Spa guests of the Villa Fraineuse by courtesy of the Belgian Ambassador at the time of the conference held there between Lloyd George, Millerand and Giolitti. Here I could measure by means of numerous important conversations how deep is the feeling of regret felt by the best minds of Europe, because America so singularly seems to have withdrawn from a position of commanding world importance.

"This is the second thought I took with me to Europe which I brought back as a settled conviction. It is that this nation cannot afford to remain out of a league founded on the hope of bringing to the world universal order and maintaining it by moral force. A position of isolation will put us at a disadvantage. These United States should have a very definite place in the League of Nations and by accepting such a place we would advantage our country of a great opportunity. With reference to our country's future, to remain outside the league is an unwise policy.

"The European nations, embarrassed by their own difficulties, of which providing the means of living is not the least, need our moral support and appeal to us for it. Frankly I believe that to put the United States in the position of refusing to give this moral support is to place our country in a false light before the world.

"European statesmen who talked with me on this absorbing subject did so courteously, of course, but with some bitterness, I thought. They voiced deep regret because of America's reluctance to join in an effort at world regeneration. They would show me the headlines in newspapers—wars and rumors of wars—and when I would ask why the League of Nations did not clean up these troubles their reply was:

"'It can't without America. Your country was the keystone of the arch. With the keystone in place the arch will stand united; without the keystone the arch will fall.'

"I met Elihu Root at the dinner given by the British Government to do him honor. It took place on the night of the dedication in London of Lincoln's statue. The place was Lancaster House and Earl Curzon presided. Lord Bryce and many notable men of both countries attended. There were no speeches, but the talk privately between men was of the league and Mr. Root's attitude toward it. The belief generally expressed, and I hold the same, is that Mr. Root has taken no brief to kill the league but rather to preserve it and to bring America, safeguarded by her constitution, into it.

AS TO ROOT'S BELIEF

"I do not believe that Root accepts the argument of league opponents who say that by entering it America automatically engages herself to participate in any and every European war. Only within the limits of her constitution she would be ready to throw her power into a combination to thwart any diabolical attempt to destroy society, such as the last war was.

"As I said, there were no speeches at this dinner, and in England as here at home, the custom of accompanying with oratory every prandial event seems to be happily dying out. It never will be missed.

"Earlier in our London stay I went to the dinner given by the Oxford men to our Princeton contingent at Queen's Club. The Oxford and Princeton fellows came down after training together at Trinity, in Oxford, and a better exhibition of good fellowship and genuine sportsmanship was never seen. They were all brothers and displayed true brotherly sentiments.

"Another charming affair of a similar kind was the dinner held on July 9 at Dr. Johnson's famous old club, the Cheshire Cheese. All the Princetonians then in London turned out to this, and there were seventy-five Oxford men acting as hosts. Speeches were barred, of course, but there were plenty of lively songs and a constant toss and catch of witty epigrams.

"The friendly relations between this university and Cambridge and Oxford constitute in a degree a league in themselves. They are growing more and more to like us as they know us better, and the good feling is amply reciprocated by Princeton. We have three men going with degrees from here to Cambridge and as many to Oxford this year.

IN RESTFUL SCOTLAND

"Having accomplished what we went to Europe for—I mean the visits we paid to the graves of our Princeton dead through motives of love and admiration—we were entitled, I suppose, to play a little in London, but we soon ran away from this gayety to Scotland and then to the Isle of Skye, where we tried to get balanced by making up lost periods of sleep. Nature is at Skye just as she is at lovely Princeton—the same soothing influence—and in her quiet we could sleep naturally again.

"If I stayed up to even a reasonable night hour it was on the excuse that I wished to see the moonlight ripple over the somber water in magical tranquility. Echoes of university doings, fragments of London gossip occasionally floated up to us, but they appeared inconsequential. We only worked them over in the general pattern of the picture of our first foreign travel since our visit to Switzerland in 1914, when our return was held up by the war. At Skye we waited rather somnolently for the summons that the wider deep would send—that is, the sailing of the Olympic, on which we had taken return passage."

From Office Boy To Company Head In 25 Years

Twenty-five years ago an alert lad of 16 years walked confidently into the offices of the Waring Hat Manufacturing Corporation in Yonkers and announced that he had come in answer to an advertisement in the local newspaper for an office boy. In about fifteen minutes he had talked the superintendent into giving him the job and was busy plying the dust rag after a fashion calculated to earn the utmost scorn and contempt of a modern office boy. In due course he did everything that a good office boy was supposed to do in those days; ran errands, met callers, filled inkwells and mended pens.

The cheerful smile, good nature and good sense of the new office boy soon attracted the attention of shrewd old John T. Waring, who never neglected the slightest detail that would tend to the upward and onward march of the business which he formed in 1849. The boy was given the opportunity of learning every branch of the hat business. When not employed in the office he would go out into the factory and watch the mechanics at work cutting the fur from the skins, matting it into felt and giving the hat its first rough shape. He soon became familiar with the processes of "sizing," "blocking," "pouncing," "finishing," "trimming" and "flanging."

Sometimes the new boy was sent out with the salesmen on the road to bring back orders to the factory, so that he gained an insight into the most important branch of the organisation.

Step by step the newcomer was promoted as other men quit or moved up higher, until at the age of 28 he was superintendent over all the Waring plants, and his O. K. had to go on millions of hats destined to adorn the heads of men and women the world over. Five years later he was made vice-president of the company, and a few weeks ago he was offered and accepted the presidency.

Thus at the age of 41 William V. Campbell finds himself directing the energies of thousands at the head of one of the most important factors in the hat making industry in the United States. He succeeds Arthur B. Waring, who retired after half a century of activity in the corporation.

Mr. Campbell, who is one of the youngest executives in the hat industry, is a true type of a successful American business man of the modern school, clean cut, quiet spoken and modest. He has a muscular development bespeaking much exercise out of doors.

When asked to what he attributes his success he usually replies, "Hard work and opportunity, I guess," and lets it go at that.

"I was no different from any other boy," began Mr. Campbell in reply to the query as to how he got his start, "and I tried two or three jobs before I found the right one. Few men get into their life work at the start, you know. I applied for the job in the Waring Hat Manufacturing Corporation because I decided that there are greater opportunities with large concerns. They paid me $3 a week to start.

"It occurred to me that I could make more money in the factory, where I saw boys earning two or three times my salary, and I sought the advice of an old factory hand. He urged me to stick to the office end of the business and I took his tip. He was one of the first to congratulate me on my good luck the other day. After that I was more settled and began to enjoy my work.

"Having decided to stick to the hat business I buckled down to work and tried to learn everything there was to learn, both in the factory and the office. Things came my way and I always seemed to be around when opportunities were going."

"Do you think there are as many opportunities in this age for young men with nothing but ability?" Mr. Campbell was asked.

"I believe," replied Mr. Campbell earnestly, "that under our democratic system of industry there is always an opportunity for the individual who is willing to take himself seriously. I should say there are greater opportunities today than heretofore. After all, it is the man and not the job which counts."

Asked to define the qualities that win in business, Mr. Campbell said he thought that integrity, loyalty and enthusiasm were the traits most valued in employes by business organisations.

"I think that many young men today want to get ahead too fast," he went on. "They start well, but soon get discouraged. Frequently they are not willing to work hard to attain their desires, but would rather spend their time idly dreaming of the fortunes other men have. Young men of this character are always casting about for ways and means of getting something for nothing, and old age generally finds them still looking."

Without the art of pleasing, however, a man rises heavily, according to Mr. Campbell's opinion. He attributes much of his advancement to the fact that he was able to inspire his associates with confidence in himself.

Growing Tendency To Marry Younger

BY MARTH A. COMAN

Matrimony, to which the war gave a sudden impetus, has managed to survive succeeding obstacles and is steadily increasing. Survive, in this relation, has no reference to individual unions. The word is used only in the general sense, meaning that matrimony is enjoying as great a vogue as it reached during those troublous times when men in uniform hastily contracted alliances and went overseas, leaving their war brides to fight out their own destiny.

Statistics collected from that greatest marriage market in the world, the Marriage License Bureau in the Municipal Building, show that while the year 1917, when the draft came, topped the list as to numbers of marriage bonds entered into, 1920 has made a flying start, matrimonially speaking, and may surpass the record year.

YOUTH DOES NOT HESITATE

Clergymen interviewed on the subject give it as their observation that there is a great increase in marriage. These men of holy orders concur with the clerks at the Marriage License Bureau in the statement that the average age of the contracting parties is noticeably younger than it was some time ago. All of which goes to show that it is the young who are rushing, thoughtlessly, perhaps, into matrimony.

That old bugaboo, the high cost of living, apparently has failed to check the enthusiasm of the matrimonially inclined. A superficial analysis of conditions would persuade one to believe that when the cost of food has soared more than 100 percent the desire for accepting new and larger obligations would cause a man to hesitate before taking the plunge. Notwithstanding this tremendous acceleration given to household accounts the budget provider is ready to take upon his shoulders the responsibility of feeding and clothing two instead of one.

Ten years ago Manhattan recorded 31,597 marriage licenses issued by the bureau. These figures are for 1909, which year we take for the purpose of making a comparison between then and 1919. In 1919 the same borough issued 40,075 licenses, nearly 10,000 more, or an increase during the decade of almost 33 1-3 percent.

CREDITS HIGH WAGES

This increase can be accounted for in part by the constantly growing population, yet Manhattan's added residents have hardly kept pace with its rate of marriages. Then, what does account for it? According to one of City Clerk P. J. Scully's assistants, the demand for licenses is due to higher wages and in spite of higher living cost.

"It's the laborers, who are earning more money, that besiege the bureau," is the explanation offered by Clerk Charles A. Glasser. He was seated in the bureau, his desk facing the throng of license seekers. It was Thursday the day popular with Italian sweethearts. The outer room was packed with hatless, dusky eyed and dark haired girls and young men of unmistakable Italian features. There were short skirted and smartly hatted girls among the groups at the various windows, girls of more prosperous families and girls who, themselves, were probably earning wages equal to that on which a generation or two ago a workingman felt he could launch his matrimonial career.

Mr. Glasser observed that the number of applications for licenses has continued to increase over the years prior to the draft, but he recalled that the draft year was a very busy year at the office. Realising that there is to be no cessation in the stream of applicants, unless all signs fail, it has been necessary for the bureau to apply for clerical reinforcements in order to relieve those who have been mustered from every department of the bureau to help out in this one.

TWO HUNDRED SOME DAYS

"Sometimes we have from 100 to 200 applicants here in one day," resumed the clerk. "And I wonder where they are going to find homes. The apartment shortage evidently is no deterrent to their matrimonial ventures."

In 1910 the Marriage License Bureau issued 34,647 certificates. This was not quite 3,000 more than the previous year. Then in 1917 the figures jumped to 41,968, the record for a single year so far. The following year the number of licenses issued dropped back to 35,410, barely 1,000 more than for 1910. For the first eight months of 1920—from January 1 to August 31—the number of licenses recorded is 27,000. But as the number is increasing each month the clerks are anticipating a total that will come close to the year of the draft.

The figures for 1918, which show a decrease over the draft year, are easily reconcilable when you think of the more than a million men who had gone overseas or were in camps on this side. Marriages were not being made with the same impetuosity and in such extraordinary numbers as when transports were carrying thousands of troops across the ocean. Matrimony was then left to the more staid members of society who were delegated to do the work at home. Most of these men were older, they had reached the years when to enter into such a formidable alliance required thought and the careful consideration of expenses.

But the impetus given to marriage by the war regained its momentum somewhat upon the return of the soldiers and seamen, and many of those who came back still unwed, eventually to find occupations which provided them with more money than they had earned before donning the uniform, decided to try a double harness venture.

With 27,700 matrimonial knots already recorded in 1920, and a quarter of the year still to pile up licenses, and in view of the fact that the authorities consider October, November and December decidedly busy months on the first floor of the Municipal Building, a fairly good figure will no doubt be set down under the 1920 date.

It costs $1 for a marriage license and $2 to have the marriage ceremony performed by a deputy city clerk, who acts now that City Clerk Scully, who has married more couples than any other person qualified to perform this rite, is temporarily away on account of illness. From May, 1916, to August, 1920, 76,422 marriages were celebrated by the City Clerk's office.

The average age of the young men and women who apply for licenses, some of whom are married in the Municipal Building, is from 23 to 26 for the men and 19 to 22 for the girls, according to Mr. Glasser. During the draft year the average age was somewhat younger. Yet the last year has shown a remarkable number of young persons going to the altar, young persons of every nationality—American, Italian, Jewish, Hungarian, Rumanian and representatives of all the other foreign countries which make New York the greatest melting pot in the world.

THE SATURDAY RUSH

"Come over some Saturday morning," advised Mr. Glasser, "if you want to see a really busy time. That's the great Jewish day for getting married, and as it's a half holiday with us we do a rushing business. Sometimes we issue more marriage licenses from 9 to 12 o'clock than we do in a week day, when the bureau is open until 4 o'clock."

A woman, who is observant and who has given some thought to the subject of the number of recent marriages contemplated from the point of view of finance, declared it as her opinion that the high cost of living has nothing whatever to do with such alliances. She said that, on the contrary, the higher wages had helped along the matrimonial wave. The cost of living, she remarked, had really not affected most people because their incomes, if they were wage earners, had more than kept pace with their expenses.

FURS

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE

Our strong desire is to extend our business. During the early part of this season many of our branches throughout the Northern parts of China and Manchuria, and elsewhere, have been searching for valuable furs. We have now made these into dresses, muffs, rugs, and other suitable articles for presents. We have also different coloured skins for the trimming of dresses, also a great deal of the finest fox, ermines, and tiger skins. All these are on exhibition in our store. "Christmas" will soon be here. Our manager has put an advertisement in all the leading newspapers to inform all our old and new customers that all prices have been greatly reduced. You will be welcome at all times.

Belgian Boy, Yanks' Mascot, 'Guest' Of Washington Police,

Louis La Pair, sixteen-year-old Belgian war orphan, is a "guest" of the Washington police, while efforts are being made to locate his brother in Texas. His mother and father were killed during the war, and for five years Louis was mascot of British and American regiments in Belgium. He recently arrived in this country. He applied to the Legation at Washington for aid in locating his brother. He was turned over to the police as a "guest," not a prisoner, and is now unofficial mascot of the Washington House of Detention.
